DR. D. W. GADDIE

Republican Convention at Lebanon Harmonious.

Strong Resolutions Favoring National Administration at Washington.

The Republican convention for the Fourth Congressional District met in Lebanon, last Monday afternoon and nominated Dr. D. W. Gaddie of La-rue county for Congress without opposition. The convention was well attended and enthusiastic. In the absence of chairman M. L. Heavrin, the body was called to order by Mr. R. B. Martin of Ohio County who held Mr. Heavrin's proxy. Hon. Scott Proctor, of Grayson County, was temporary chairman and W. S. Tinsley, of Ohio County served as permanent chairman. Both made brief but pointed speeches upon taking the chair. Shrumman Ball of Breckinridge County acted as secretary. Hon. George W. Long was chairman of the committee on resolutions which was made up with one member from each county. Mr. R. B. Martin, serving from Ohio County. After adopting the following resolutions, the convention adjourned:

1. The Republicans of the Fourth Congressional District in delegate convention assembled renew our declaration of allegiance to the organized Republican party and our devotion to its principles and policies as enunciated by its National Conventions and carried into effect by its administrations and Congresses.

2. We heartily endorse the wise, conservative, firm and progressive administration of President Taft and the wholesome, just and useful laws passed by the Sixty-first Congress.

3. We cordially endorse the able, energetic and effective work of Senator Wm. O. Bradley. He has accomplished in the Sixty-first Congress more real, substantial good for the people of Kentucky and the South than had been done for a generation before.

4. We earnestly endorse the administration of Governor Willson and those associated with him in administration work.

5. We condemn the Democratic party in Kentucky for its failure to pass efficient laws for the control of corporations and the suppression of harmful trusts and for its utter failure to execute with vigor the feeble laws upon these subjects which it has placed upon the Statutes.

6. We stand by the American doctrine of Protection by which the American markets have been preserved to the American producer and the goods of foreign countries, made by under-paid labor, have been forced to pay for their entrance into competition with the products of the American workman. The principles of protection and the question of wages are inseparably bound together in this country and are fundamental the question of schedules is a varying one. We favor such changes in the individual schedules of the present tariff as may be ascertained to be right by the scientific investigation to be made by the Tariff Commission authorized by Congress. Such changes to be made as the facts relating to the various schedules are ascertained, to the end that a tariff may be constructed upon scientific principles founded upon ascertained facts.

7. We call the attention of laboring men to the fact that since the resumption of sales payments in 1879 the wages of bricklayers have advanced in different sections 180 to 250 per cent.; that those of carpenters have advanced 212 to 233 per cent.; that wages of painters have advanced 59 to 157 percent; that those of plasterers have advanced 175 to 300 per cent.; that wages of ordinary laborers have advanced 65 to 140 per cent., and other laborers in like proportion.

8. We call the attention of laboring men and others to the article in the Courier-Journal of August 21st, 1910, showing that farm-hands in India receive but three cents a day and that men in cotton-mills there are paid only 20 cents a day, and also to a recent article by the same author in which he shows that cotton-mill hands in Japan are paid from 11 to 30 cents a day, and to ask if the people of the United States are willing to follow the Democrats in their effort to admit goods made by men at these starvation wages into open competition with goods made by American labor.

9. We submit the following comparison of results under Democratic laws and administration and under Republican laws and administration: Farm animals January 1, 1893, at the close of Harrison's administration, were worth $2,483,506,681, while on January 1, 1897, at the close of Cleveland's administration they were worth $1,655,414,612, a loss of $828,092,069 in four years of Democratic rule. On January 1, 1910, they were worth $5,138,486,000, an increase of $3,483,071,388 in thirteen years of Republican control.

10. On July 1, 1892, just before Mr. Cleveland's election, medium wool in the Eastern markets was worth 34 cents a pound; on July 1, 1896, just before McKinley was elected, this same grade of wool in the same market sold for eighteen cents a pound, a loss of sixteen cents a pound, while on July 1, 1909, the same grade of wool on the same market brought 49 cents a pound, a gain of 22 cents, or more than double the Democratic prices.

11. The interest bearing debt of the United States July 1, 1893, was $385,037,100, while on July 1, 1897, it amounted to $47,365,130, an increase of $262,323,030, during a time of peace and when no great public improvement was under way. The in-

OPENS UNDER FAVORABLE CONDITIONS

Many Patrons and Visitors Present At College Monday.

The 31st annual opening of Hartford college and Ohio County High School took place last Monday morning under most favorable conditions. Besides an unusually large attendance of pupils, many of the patrons, both ladies and gentlemen were present to add their influence for the good of the school. Prof. Halley E. Brown is a new man at the helm, but he has served many important positions as an educator and last year was vice president and principal of the High School. Prof. Smith the new vice President and principal of the High School is a well known educator and has made a splendid reputation in Western Kentucky. Miss Winona Stevent is a new member of the faculty, a graduate of Georgetown College and a young woman of rare attainments and charming personality. The teachers in the lower grades were all re-elected. Revs. Bruner and Elgin lead in devotional exercises, after which president Brown and vice president Smith each pledged their untiring efforts to the upbuilding of Hartford College. The Board of Education was represented by chairman Glenn, who made a brief address on behalf of the Board. Supt. Leach and Prof. Thomas Morton, an ex-president of the college, who happened to be present, each delivered forceful talks along educational lines. Mrs. Glenn, wife of the chairman of the school board, made an interesting talk to the pupils of the primary department and offered a gold medal to the one in that department doing the best work during the year. Quite a number of students from out of town are enrolled already in the High School and Collegiate departments and many more are expected.

Special Notice.

All or any persons having claims against the estate of the late L. F. Condit must have them properly proven and presented to me at my office in Hartford, Ky., on or before October the 15th, 1910, or they will be forever barred. All persons knowing themselves indebted to the deceased by note, account or any other way, must settle at once.

E. T. WILLIAMS, Executor of L. F. Condit.

Judge Wedding Did Not Believe Young Was Guilty.

The examining trial of Herman Young, charged with killing Captain T. K. Bowles on a derrick boat in Green River, on account of which appeared in the Republican last week, was held before his Honor Judge R. R. Wedding, Saturday and was concluded Monday afternoon. The Commonwealth was represented by County Attorney, C. E. Smith and attorneys Heavrin & Woodward, while the defense was represented by attorneys C. M. Barnett, G. B. Likens and County Attorney J. A. Logan, of Edmonson County. Every inch of ground was sharply contested throughout the trial, and strong speeches were made at the conclusion of the evidence by attorneys Barnett, Smith, Likens and Heavrin. Judge Wedding announced at the close that he did not believe the evidence would warrant an indictment by the Grand Jury, nor did he believe that a conviction could be had before any Ohio County jury in Circuit Court. However upon a plea of the attorneys for the prosecution that they could not secure a return of the witnesses from a different state, Judge Wedding allowed Young to go on his own bond in the sum of $100, which amounted practically to a dismissal of the case. Only two eye witnesses to the tragedy were present and they both testified that Bowles came on the derrick boat where Young was in charge of the hoisting engine and complained that he, Young, should do his work in a different manner, whereupon Young contended that he was doing the best he could with the machine and Bowles shook his fist under Young's nose and then shoved him back on a pile of coal. Young then ordered Bowles off the derrick boat, whereupon Bowles advanced toward him with his fist raised in a threatening manner when Young secured a club, which was lying on or near the coal pile, and struck Bowles on the head, from the effects of which he died a few hours later. The two witnesses for the Commonwealth also both swore that Bowles' reputation for peace and quietude was bad. Several other witnesses swore that his reputation for peace and quietude was good but some of them admitted, on cross examination that "some said one way and some said another." Young is only twenty years old and is a much smaller man than the evidence showed Bowles to be.

Minutes Ready.

The minutes of the Ohio County Missionary Baptist Association are ready for distribution at this office and we are requested by secretary Tichon, to ask the representatives of the various churches to call here for them as soon as possible.

Remembered on His Birthday.

Rev. G. J. Bean was very happily surprised last Tuesday evening upon returning to his home, which is at the residence of his son-in-law, Mr. J. H. B. Carson, to find between forty and fifty of his children, grand children, and great grand children, assembled with well laden baskets and table already spread to help him celebrate his 87th birthday. He had been kept away from the house all the afternoon by one ruse or another by various members of the family, but as night approached he began to get restless and finally announced that it was time to go home as it was almost night. When he got in sight of the residence and saw the large assemblage of his descendants he said "well they tricked me." Notwithstanding his great age he entered into the spirit of the occasion and was greatly pleased with it. All of his living children were present and almost all of his grand children and great grand children. Bro. Bean has lived a very useful life and one of great activity and no man who ever lived in our town or country commands greater respect for his loyalty, morality, temperance and Christianity. May he live to a still greater ripe old age.

The Convention was called to order by R. B. Martin Chairman of the Co. Executive Committee, and after reading the call for said Convention the chairman announced that the first in order was the election of a Chairman to preside over the Convention; There upon, on motion, C. P. Keown was unanimously elected Chairman.

The chair then announced that the election of a Secretary was in order. Whereupon Roscoe Render was placed in nomination for secretary, and the vote having been taken he was declared elected as said Secretary.

On motion the Chairman then appointed the following named persons as a Committee on resolutions, viz: J. M. DeWeese, R. B. Martin, H. E. Brown E. P. Taylor and Marvin Black, the following was the report of Committee on resolutions, which report was unanimously adopted.

Be it resolved by the Republicans of Ohio County, Ky., in Mass Convention assembled, First, That we approve the call of this Convention and the call of the Convention to be held at Lebanon, Ky., on September 5th, 1910, for the purpose of nominating a Republican Candidate for Congress to be voted for at the regular Election, November the 8th, 1910, in said 4th Congressional District.

Second, We endorse the noble administration of President Taft and the Republican principles as laid down in the Platform adopted at the last National Convention at Chicago in 1908.

Third, We endorse the wise administration of Governor A. E. Whitten and his noble efforts in running the State affairs against a solid Democratic Legislature.

Fourth, We further endorse the noble work and efficient service of our U. S. Senator, W. O. Bradley.

Fifth, We desire to place the name of the Honorable C. M. Barnett before the District Convention as the most suitable man for the nomination for Congress from the 4th Congressional District, and we instruct the delegation from Ohio County to use all honorable means to secure his nomination.

Sixth, That the following named persons be, and they are, hereby appointed as delegates to represent this County in said District Convention and they are hereby instructed to cast the entire vote of the County as a unit on all questions coming before said District Convention, C. M. Barnett, M. L. Heavrin, R. B. Martin, C. P. Keown, Roscoe Render, Marvin Black, H. E. Brown, E. P. Taylor, J. M. DeWeese, L. D. Bennett, B. S. Chamberlin, W. D. Morris, Amos Slack, O. R. Tinsley, Henry Leach, Sam Leach, R. R. Wedding, T. H. Black, S. A. Anderson, E. G. Barrass, S. A. Bratcher, E. M. Woodward, C. E. Smith, W. S. Tinsley, W. P. Midkiff, Bernard Felix, G. W. Brown, W. B. Taylor, J. Thomas Allen, Frank Black, J. H. Thomas, W. S. Guines, S. L. Stevens and all other good Republicans in the county.

There being no further business, on motion the convention adjourned.

C. P. KEOWN, Ch'm'n.

ROSCOE RENDER, Sec'y.

County Court Will Day.

The regular term of County Court Monday might reasonably be termed will day as there were seven wills offered for probate during the days session. The will of L. F. Condit was the first offered and after hearing the evidence of the attesting witnesses, Dr. E. B. Pondleton and E. T. Williams, the will was ordered to record. He names Mrs. L. E. Potter and Miss Sadie Hendrix, Messrs L. H. Condit, Harve Condit, Tilden and Clarence Taylor, W. F. Condit and Mrs. Mattie Taylor as his beneficiaries. Mr. E. T. Williams was named executor.

The will of Mr. Louis Gunther was then offered and after hearing the evidence of the attesting witnesses was ordered to record. His two daughters Misses Henrietta and Maggi Gunther are named as the beneficiaries and likewise as executrices.

The will of the late J. C. Park was offered and after hearing the evidence of the attesting witnesses, Dr. E. W. Ford and E. W. Woodward, the will was ordered to record. Mr. J. A. C. Park, Miss Emma Park were named as beneficiaries and his other heirs to share in the remainder of the estate as provided by the statute. Mr. J. A. C. Park was named as executor.

The will of Alvin Marlow was then offered and after hearing the evidence of the attesting witnesses was ordered to record. His surviving wife, Bertha Marlow was named as sole beneficiary and was likewise named as executrix.

The will of Augustus E. Keown, was then offered and after hearing the evidence of the attesting witnesses was ordered to record. His wife was named as sole beneficiary.

The will of Harrietta Weller, in other words a paper purporting to be her will was offered, but as same was not witnessed it could not be probated. It was however recorded as the agreement of the heirs as to the distribution of the estate.

Successful Meeting Closed.

I closed on Aug. 29th, a fine meeting at Williams Mines one of the best meetings I have had in my four years ministry. We had a crowded house from the first night and the revival broke out the first night, one soul saved at the first service and God blessed us with a good revival. Forty seven converted and thirty-six joined the church. Bless His Holy Name. Thee Pastor was assisted by Brother Rosinon who makes his home at the Mines. Bro. Robinson is fine help he worked faithfully. The church at that place is in good condition, we have ninety-one members at that place and most all pray in public and testify to God's saving grace. They also ask for the pastor's return next year. Our conference convenes at Paintsville this year. The Beaver Dam charge has increased in membership this year over fifty. I ask the readers of this paper to pray for the pastor that he may be a soul winner for Christ.

LONGWORTH

IS DEFENDED.

Mr. Thomas Thinks He Was Right.

Cannon Had Outlived His Day of Usefulness--Should Have Withdrawn.

Editor Republican:--I have no intention of provoking a political controversy with so orthodox Republican newspaper as the Hartford Republican, but your criticism in the editorial columns of your paper last week of Nicholas Longworth's declaration that he would not support uncle Joe Cannon for reelection to the speakership was confined too closely to the purely personal features of the case. Your comment that gratitude was a factor almost wholly wanting among politicians was justly made; but in Mr. Longworth's declaration, involving as it did so much of the welfare of the Republican party and the nation, the personal equation is negligible. Speaker Cannon was the product of a system the American people have outgrown. The Republican party was demanding an assurance that Cannon would be relegated to the ranks. Mr. Cannon was unable to see this or too proud to accept it, hence the declaration must come from some one high in the councils of the party. Mr. Longworth by reason of a close family relationship with the most eminent Republican leader of the nation was one member of the house whose voice would be heard all round the circle of states; and it was for this purpose rather than from any anxiety about his own re-election, which is assured that he made the declaration. Speaker Cannon has only his own stupidity or perversity to blame for the humiliating Longworth interview. The House of Representatives had given him a vote of no confidence and he owed it to the party that had honored him to withdraw from the race without embarrassing his party with forcing it. Senator Aldrich, more astute than Cannon, saw the storm brewing and gallantly reefed his sail.

Cannon and Aldrich have outlined their day. Old men do not readily adapt themselves to moral and industrial revolutions so radical as those now taking place in the United States.

Mr. Longworth has done his party a distinguished service and if he is sacrificing a benefactor to serve the highest interests of his party and his country the public will applaud. I should as soon follow the lead of Canon and Aldrich as that of LaFollette and Cummings. These stand for the extremes of the Republican party; each partly right and partly wrong. Between them are Roosevelt and Taft and the masses of the American people demanding a just measure of restraint, but not the total destruction of the old order of things.

It was to voice the policy of these rather than to express a personal feeling that Longworth spoke and these must take the responsibility for his utterance.

FIGHTING THE FOREST FIRES.

How Can Great Loss be Prevented.

Promptness in Reaching Conflagration and Skill in Fighting Very Important.

Officials of the U. S. Department of Agriculture are of the opinion that 1916 will hold the record among many years for the severity of the losses from forest fires. The summer fires followed a spring season believed to have been the worst, certainly in the Lake States, known for a long time. Nor is it wise to assume that the danger is over when the fierce conflagrations which have called forth in the Mountain States the efforts of three Federal Departments have been conquered. The forests will not be safe until the fall rains and snows have once more made a wet blanket of the dry forest floor. That the total losses of the year will run up to many millions of dollars is considered certain.

How such losses may be prevented is a matter of general public concern. To the National Forest timber burned must be added great amounts on state and private holdings, besides the immense damage done to town, farm, and other property. Railroads have suffered from the interruption of traffic as well as from direct losses. A bulletin by Forester Henry S. Graves discusses forest fires and the proper methods of preventing and fighting them, as follows:

In some sections of the country forest fires have always been of such common occurrence that there is a popular notion that they can not be prevented. The risk from fires can never be entirely eliminated, for in the forest there is always inflammable material which is very easily ignited. They may, however, be largely prevented, and under efficient organization their damage may be kept down to a very small amount. The problem is like that in cities where fires can never be entirely eliminated, but where the risk of loss to property may be reduced almost to insignificance.

The importance of systematic provision for the early discovery of fires and for getting a properly equipped force of fire fighters quickly to the scene of an outbreak is insisted upon by Forester Graves. "A careful supervision or patrol during the dry season," he says, "is one of the most important measures in organized forest protection. One of the fundamental principles in fire protection is to detect and attack fires in their incipency." After pointing out the value of lookouts, telephone or signal communication and various methods of patrol, the Forester tells how to fight fires, as follows:

"The principles of fighting forest fires are essentially the same as those recognized in fighting fires in cities. The following are of first importance: (1) Quick arrival at the fire; (2) an adequate force; (3) proper equipment; (4) a thorough organization of the fighting crew, and (5) skill in attacking and fighting fires. Quick access to fires is accomplished through the work of supervision and patrol in discovering fires before they have gained much headway, and by a well developed system of communication through the forest by roads and trails.

"A small fire may be put out by one man, in extensive forests several hours may pass before the fire can be reached. It is important to secure an adequate force of men and to get them to the fire quickly. In a well-organized system of patrol the guard who discovers a fire communicates quickly to other guards and to headquarters by telephone, signal, or other means and indicates the number of men he needs.

"The efficiency of the fire-fighting crew depends very largely on their skill and experience, and particularly on the skill and experience of the man directing the work. It is not only a question of knowledge of how to assign each man where his work will be most effective, but there must be judgment exercised in determining the general method of attack. The character of the fire, the character of the forest, the condition of the atmosphere, the strength and direction of the wind, the aridity with which the fire is running and many other points have to be taken into consideration."

After describing how surface fires may be put out by beating, by throwing sand or loose earth, and by other methods, the account goes on:

"Sometimes the front of the fire is so fierce that it is impossible to meet it directly. One method under such circumstances is to direct the course of the fire. The attack is made on the sides near the front, separating the forward portion of the fire from the main wings. A part of the crew attacks the forward part and others run down and extinguish the wings. The front of the fire, attacked from the sides, is forced gradually and constantly into a narrower path. Usually the front can be directed toward some cleared space, road, pond, stream, swamp, or fire line, when it will be checked enough to admit of a direct front attack. Sometimes by this plan the front may be rapidly narrowed by working from the sides, until it is at last entirely extinguished. The plan of giving direction to the course of the fire has often been successfully carried out when the fighting crew is too small for a direct attack.

"When fires gain such headway that it is impossible to stop them by direct attack, no matter how numerous and efficient the crew or complete the equipment for fighting back firing becomes the only means of stopping the fire. It should, however, be used only when it is absolutely necessary. One of the commonest mistakes in fighting fires is to overestimate the rapidity of the fire and the difficulty of putting it out. A forest fire is always a frightening spectacle, particularly if it is sweeping in the direction of one's own property. Men often become excited and start back fires when it is entirely unnecessary. Back firing necessarily involves deliberately burning over property. When this belongs to another person and one's own forest seems in danger, there is a great temptation to sacrifice it.

If it is found that a back fire is necessary, a favorable point is selected directly in front of the fire, from which to set the new fire. This must be a point where it is safe to start a back fire, such as a road, fire line, stream, or swamp. The leaves are ignited at points five to a rod apart for a distance not greater than the estimated width of the head of the fire. These small fires gradually meet and form a continuous line, eating back against the wind. A part of the crew is stationed across the road or other break from which the back fire is started and put out at once the small fires which may result from the sparks blown over from the back fire.

The meeting of the two fires stops at once the head of the main fire. It is usually possible then to attack the wings with the ordinary methods of fighting. It is necessary to attack the wings at once, particularly if there is a strong wind, for otherwise each wing of the old fire would soon form an independent fire with a well-developed head. It is necessary, also, that a number of men be stationed where the original fire and the back fire meet in order to extinguish smoldering fires in tops, logs, and other debris.

"A fire is never out," the bulletin concludes "until the last spark is extinguished. Often a log or snag will smoulder unnoticed after the flame have apparently been conquered, only to break out afresh with a rising wind. After the fire-fighting crew has left the ground it is always well to assign at least one man to patrol the edges of the burned area until it is certain that the fire is entirely out. This may not be for several days."

WONDERFUL CALIFORNIA CHILD

Speaks Eight Languages at Eight Years of Age.

Mother Started Training Child When Only A Baby and Made Play Work.

"A San Francisco dispatch says:—'Cherie can speak only English, French Spanish, Latin, and Esperanto,' said the mother of eight-year-old Winifred Sackville Stoner, Jr., 'that is she can speak only those languages fluently and think in them. She can also speak Japanese, Russian, German, Polish and Italian to the extent that she can carry on a conversation in them, but she can't think in them.'"

While Mrs. Stoner was talking the child played about her home at No. 465 Melville street Palo Alto, talking to her dolls, frisking from room to porch and from porch to room, like any healthy child of eight with but one language to its credit.

Little "Cherie" Stoner is William James Sidis' only rival in infantile precocity, and the sole reason that her fame is not yet so great as his is that she is but eight years old, while he is twelve. The girl prodigy is now living with her mother in Palo Alto and will be to Stanford University what William James Sidis is to Harvard.

Not only is the child a linguist with a stock of tongues in her head that surpasses the vocabulary of the most assiduous savants, but she is a poet and has published a book of her verses. She is a reader of the classics and would be perfectly at home at Dr. Elliott's five-foot shelf of books if she were tall enough to reach up to the row.

"Her advancement," said her mother yesterday, "is not due to anything but the way in which she was educated. I began with her when she was three weeks old, developing her both mentally and physically, and the effect of the teaching and methods is apparent. The method used is the same that was employed in training of William James Sidis, the Boston lad. I started from the first to teach the child the best, to cultivate her taste and to improve her mind. I do not have her show off, and I know that she is as normal as any other child of the same age, but I would like to have her work known for the benefit of other kiddies, for any child may be trained the same way with the same probable result. The secret is to make their training play for them."

The father of little "Cherie," as her mother calls little Winifred, is Col. J. B. Stoner of the United States marine hospital service, at present in command of the United States marine hospital at Port Townsend, Wash. It was from Port Townsend that the mother and child came to Palo Alto, in search of a better climate. The mother is a daughter of Lord Sackville West, British ambassador to the United States during one of Cleveland's administrations. Mrs. Stoner is president of the Women's Esperanto association of North America, and is an authority on Esperanto. She also has trained her small daughter to speak the linguistic panacea, and little "Cherie" not only speaks the language, but writes poems in it. The gift of verse is one of the child's most remarkable charms.

It was as a reciter of her own verses that the child first appealed to a World reporter to-day at her mother's home in Palo Alto. Winifred is a sturdy little girl, with the bashfulness of a child. She came in to the room half concealed behind her mother's skirts. She appeared to be a bit larger than children of eight usually are. Her eyes shone big and brown. She wore a simple checked pinafore and a dainty gold chain and locket about her throat. She had white stockings and sandals on her substantial little feet, and she was not still for a moment. The book of "Jingles," which Miss Winifred Sackville Stoner published at the age of six, is a book of 52 pages and nearly 100 selections.

Throughout the country college professors and educators have taken the utmost interest in little Cherie's development. Prof. George Macloskie, of Princeton university, has studied her and not only that, but shared the honors with the child at a recital at the Esperanto congress at Chautauqua, N. Y., when the little miss was seven years of age.

The Road to Matrimony.

It is no surprise to learn that plain-faced cashiers are so extremely rare in St. Louis that they must be advertised for and the only reason given for the advertisement is that five cashiers have been married from behind the desk in the past twelve months and that the advertising venture is a desperate effort to reduce this constant procession of trained helpers to the hymeneal altar.

It seems a useless attempt, for the attractive charms of cashiers are in no way confined to mere faultless complexions or regularity of feature. Every girl is endowed with a more or less generous capital in the lists of sentiment and every girl is sure to be some man's better half if he is fortunate enough to find her and happily secures favor in her eyes.

In these days of bountiful work for women, maidens fair do not feel any impulsion of haste in choosing. The man who persuades a self-supporting young woman to marry him ought to feel flattered.

While we sympathize deeply with St. Louis firms which can not keep a beautiful cashier any longer than from Monday until Saturday on account of the matrimonial raids of nice likely looking men, we can scarcely help from uttering three cheers—in which we feel confident we shall be joined and re-enforced by numerous worthy citizens who have flats to rent—just suited to the requirements of young married couples.

Deafness Cannot be Cured. by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

Afraid of Being Victimized.

Edward H. R. Green, the son of the richest woman in the world, is a bachelor.

The reason why I am a bachelor said Mr. Green to a St. Louis reporter is that I'm so big that I can't disguise myself sufficiently to pose as a poor man. In my own person I'm afraid of being married for the wrong reason.

"I'm afraid lest, like the lady with the doughnuts, I may be the victim of ulterior and insulting motives."

"The lady I refer to, after assisting a tramp, received another visit an hour later from the same man."

"Madam, he said you gave me three doughnuts a while back. Would you mind adding another one to make it four?"

Gladly said the lady all smiles and she wrapped a doughnut in a newspaper and handed it to him. So you like my doughnuts do you?"

Kentucky State Fair Notes.

Five of the World's fastest pacers will be the "added attraction" at the Kentucky State Fair, which begins in Louisville, on Monday, September 12. The Fair management was able to secure the attraction for only one day, Saturday, the closing day of the Fair. Dan Patch, with a record of 1:55; Hiner Heir, 1:59 1-1; George Gano, 2:03 3-4; Hedgewood, 2:02 1-4 and Lady Maud, C. 2:02 1-2, are the monarchs of the turf who will be seen together on Kentucky's soil for the first time. Dan Patch and Hiner Heir will be driven as a team against time. It is possible the horse will also remain over Saturday night and he exhibited at the closing night horse show.

Entries have come in to the Kentucky State Fair earlier and in greater number than ever before. This is taken by the management as a positive indication that the Eight Annual Exhibition, which is to be given in Louisville the week of September 12, will break all records from an exhibit standpoint. Every department of the Fair is already well filled with high class entries, and the number is being increased daily. The best State Fair ever held South of the Ohio river is assured.

Wednesday, September 14 will be one of the banner days of the Kentucky State Fair. A reception in honor of Kentucky men from every section of the Commonwealth have signified their intention of being present. Although "Kentucky Day" has been scheduled for the day following, the inauguration of the day for Kentucky statesmen exclusively is expected to mean two full days dedicated to the citizens of Kentucky generally. Invitations have been sent out to members of the Legislature, the Kentucky delegation in Congress, State and county officials and others prominent in public life.

"Pioneer Days in Kentucky" is the title under which a monster open air drama will be presented each night of the Kentucky State Fair. Fair week begins on September 12 and lasts until September 17. A contract has been closed with Pain, the world famous fire works expert, for this elaborate spectacle. It is planned to make a "Pioneer Days in Kentucky" a grand historical pageant as well as an entrancing fire works exhibition. The special railroad rates made for State Fair week and the facilities offered by Louisville's hundreds of hotels and boarding houses, will make it possible for visitors to enjoy an economical excursion to Louisville, attending the Fair both days and night.

Entries in the horse show, which is to be repeated this year as a nightly feature of the Kentucky State Fair, include the most prominent show animals in America. Every class exhibited in the winter shows will be seen and the number of horses already entered indicates that the exhibition will prove a record breaker. The night horse show was first introduced at the Kentucky State Fair last year and made an instantaneous hit. The success of that occasion has caused the Fair management to devote extra energies to this feature of the big show this year and the attraction will be one worth an overnight stay in the State metropolis. Excursion rates have been announced on all railroads covering State Fair week, which begins September 12 and closes September 17, round trip one fare plus 25 cents.

THE COURT IS SHOCKED

Disclosure Brought Ont In Taylor-Grogg Case.

Judge Birkhead Refuses to Car-
cel Deed on Insanity
Plea.

Judge Birkhead handed down a decision on Saturday in the case of Clay Taylor against J. H. Grogg and others pending in the Ohio circuit court in which there is a partial victory for the defendants. The suit was brought to set aside and have cancelled a deed to 424 acres of land in Ohio county upon the grounds that at the time the deed was made, the plaintiff was mentally incapacitated, and also upon the grounds of a failure of consideration, upon the idea that the stock in a certain coal company, which was to be taken as part payment of the land, would sell on the market at par value. The opinion shows that Judge Birkhead has given this case considerable thought and he says the plea of insanity of the plaintiff is not sustained, and he refuses to order the contracts cancelled. The court however says that there has been a failure in the consideration, and directs that the defendants pay the plaintiff the sum of $333.33, or have the Green River Coal Mining company to deliver to the plaintiff $3,200 more stock in the corporation. Judge Birkhead, in his opinion says "that the situation disclosed by the record shocks the court." The opinion in full is as follows:

This suit was brought by the plaintiff in which he seeks by the prayer of his petition to cancel two deeds made by himself and wife to a tract of land containing 424.6 acres. One of the deeds is conveying the mineral rights and the other the surface of the land. The deeds are dated in 1907, and he seeks to have them cancelled on two grounds: First a mental incapacity to make the deed and blind himself thereby and second, on the ground that the defendants practiced a fraud on him in securing the deed. The tract of land lies on the north bank of Green river in Ohio county, and seems to have some fine coal land under it, and it is the key to other coal lands situated further back from the river.

As to the first ground, the mental incapacity on the part of the plaintiff to make the deed and blind himself thereby, I have read a second time a large part of the evidence in this record, carrying in my mind this charge in the petition and I am inclined to the opinion that taking his own evidence as indicating his mental condition, that this court is bound to conclude that he is a man of reasonably good sense; that is he answers the questions with reasonable intelligence and seems to understand them, and his answers are responsive to the questions in most every instance, so on this ground I think the plaintiff must fail. On the second ground, that he was deceived and misled by the statement of the defendants, Dudley and Grogg, that the value of the stock in the Green River Coal Mining company, a corporation organized in part by the defendants, Dudley and Grogg, guaranteed to be worth par on the market when it was issued. The corporation, defendant, Green River Coal Mining company, seems to have been capitalized at $1,500,000. There has been about $60,000 of the capital stock paid in, as I gather. Together with the plaintiff's land it seems that the defendants, Dudley and Grogg, has about 7,522 acres of mineral land, all of which they seem to have turned over to the defendant company.

I incline to the opinion that the court cannot cancel the deed made by the plaintiff to the defendants, Dudley and Grogg, because it has been conveyed by them to a third person. I incline further to the opinion, though with some doubt, that the plaintiff, being a confiding man as I gather from this record, has listened with too much confidence to the statements made by a booster representative of the defendants, Dudley and Grogg, in the purchase of this land. It is reasonably clear to my mind that the plaintiff was to receive $4,000 in cash for the mineral and surface of his land, and the residue of it he was to take in stock in the corporation to be organized and it is reasonably clear in my mind that he should receive a fair valuation in the stock for the land which he actually conveyed to them. I think the court places a fair estimate on the value of this farm, from the evidence, when he fixes the entire value at $9,000, including the mineral. Deducting therefrom $4,000, which I gather from the record the defendants have paid on the mortgage debt of the plaintiff and in cash, would leave $5,000 that he ought to receive in stock estimated at its fair market value.

I am inclined to the further opinion that this property which the defendants Dudley and Grogg, bought at from $5.00 to $8.00 per acre for the mineral was traded into the corporation at $5.00 per acre perhaps to be taken in stock by them in a large measure. The land itself at $50.00 per acre would probably be $355,000 at that price. So the capital stock of the corporation being $1,500,000, which is practically four times the value of the land which was transferred; but I presume the corporation will sell the difference between $355,000 the value of the coal land and the $1,500,000 for cash, or it will be treasury stock, so it seems that the defendants, Dudley and Grogg, have put this mineral right into the corporation at something like seven times the price they paid for it; or, to be more liberal to them, say six times the price they paid for it so this stock, I take it would be worth 16 2-3 cents to the dollar figured on that basis.

If the plaintiff was to receive pay for the excess over $4,000 in stock of the corporation to be organized, then he ought to receive a fair equivalent for its $5,000 the balance unpaid, in the value of the stock. Figuring $5,000 to be paid in stock at 16 2-3 cents to the dollar would require $30,000 in stock worth 16 2-3 cents on the dollar to pay the debt. It seems that the plaintiff has already received $26,800 in stock of this corporation. So, if these figures are correct the defendants, Dudley and Grogg would be required to have its co-defendant, the Green River Coal Mining company to deliver to the plaintiff $3,200 more in stock of the corporation, the Green River Coal Mining company. Upon their failure to do that the court would adjudge him a lien on the surface of the tract that be sold, for $533.33.

From my reading of this record I gather that the defendants, Dudley and Grogg still own the surface of this plaintiff's tract of land, and to that extent I am of the opinion that the consideration which the plaintiff has received has failed, or in other words, that the true consideration of $9,000, the fair value of this farm, has not been paid in full; that there is still due him the above sum. That being the court's conclusion the court can adjudge this sum a lien on the surface of the tract of land and order it enforced. But as mentioned above, I think it was the understanding that the plaintiff was to accept all in excess of $4,000 in stock of the corporation and the defendants, Dudley and Grogg within a reasonable time, say before December 1, 1910, shall deliver to him $3,200 more in the stock of the Green River Coal Mining company. Then this matter can be finally ended in this court. If they do not by that time, then the court can by future order enforce a lien on it for the $533.33.

The record in this case contains over a thousand pages and I am not sure that I have gotten the real situation in my mind, but these figures, as I see it, do substantial justice between the parties to this law suit and ends it so far as this court is concerned. The situation disclosed by this record shocks the court. While I do not think the plea of insanity is sustained, yet the plaintiff seems not to have had sufficient judgment to take care of his own interests, especially after he received the stock in the corporation. He seems to have traded it, pledged it, bought lots, mills gave notes for them pledged stock as collateral borrowed money and pledged his stock as collateral, suffered the stock to be sold, has gone into the hands of several parties, and I do not think the court can furnish him any relief in the way of cancelling these contracts.

This opinion can be pledged with the clerk and kept by him until the next term of court, and if counsel desire to be heard further about it they may do so insofar as the correctness of the figures in this case is concerned.

Effects of Alcohol.

There are several striking peculiarities of alcoholism. No evil of our present time has aroused so much interest, nor so much careful study.

The question as to whether or not alcoholism is a hereditary disease has long been a point of contention.

For many years it was believed that consumption was a disease of the blood. Because a parent or both parents died from the disease it was thought that the children would inherit the same fatal malady. This is no longer accepted as true. Raised in a family of consumptives it is natural that the trouble may be contracted but the healthy baby of healthy parents might contract the disease also if raised in a family of consumptives, not exercising proper sanitary precautions.

The same question applies to alcoholisms.

The same explanation is being made by the University of London, where a close observation and study has been made by Prof. Karl Pearson and others of this faculty.

Over 3500 children have been recently examined. The children were selected from the working classes in Edinburgh and Manchester. They were observed closely with results quite subversive of the prevalent opinion regarding the deleterious effects of alcoholism on the victims' offspring.

Prof. Pearson shows that as war-earners the alcoholic parents are only a trifling percentage behind the nondrinkers, and this he believes argues for a slight superiority in physique and intelligence over the abstinent class since the drinking habit, in itself, is apt to be penalized by a lower wage. Passing to the children he says there is decidedly a higher death rate among the children of alcoholic parents than among the children of parents who do not drink. This, however, is easily explained in the neglect of drunken parents, and in the improper attention given them. It is not because of any hereditary tendency, but, like in tuberculosis, it is in the improper protection of their offspring after birth that results in the increased death rate.

In height and weight the tests stand even between the two classes.

The general health of children of alcoholic parents appears to be much better than that of sober parents. There are fewer delicate children among the descendants of alcoholic parents, tuberculosis and epilepsy are markedly less frequent. This point is strikingly shown, the percentage being about one-third. This is particularly explained on the hypothesis that the physically stronger parents in a community have a stronger craving for drink, and partly because the death rate among children of inebriates is greater eliminating the weaklings.

Alcoholism reveals no connection with abnormal or defective eyesight nor is it the source of mental defect in children.

"To sum up," says the government report upon the investigation of the university, no marked relation has been found between the intelligence, physique or disease of the offspring and parental alcoholism in any of the categories investigated.

But this is no reason why parents should feel encouraged to drink, for the evil results show themselves in many ways.

The habit may not be hereditary but it is easily acquired.

It is not necessary to inherit a disease to die from it. Drink is a bad thing in any aspect you view it. The facts disapprove a theory, however and it is well to respect the discoveries of science.—From the Memphis Tenn., Commercial-Appeal.

Woman and the Street Car.

To teach a mature woman how to get on and off a street car is perhaps impossible; her way of going at it will continue, in all likelihood to be as awkward and dangerous as ever. But there is hope for the growing girl, and the possibility of training her to safeguard life and limb is now recognized in some Eastern schools. In Brooklyn two or three school gymnasiums have been fitted up with miniature cars, each with a step exactly the same in size, position and distance from the ground as that on the ordinary street car. A crew of students propel the car around a track and the rest either aboard or at established "stations," are set to mastering the few simple elementary rules for urban travel that the feminine mind is so prone to neglect. The points impressed on the girls minds may serviceably be mentioned here.

They must wait till the car is stationary. When they get off they must face the direction which the car is going. They must take hold of the handrail both ascending and descending. And they are required to learn grace as well as precision in their movements.

The real hope of the world is in the young. Practice taken to-day may keep down the casualty roll of the future.—From the Chicago Record-Herald.

"Too many Americans of the twentieth century," said Jacob A. Rills in an address in New York have a wrong idea of business. Now business is really honest service—honest service—nothing but that.

"But too many men look on business as a certain sordid shopkeeper did.

MESSRS. CANNON AND LONGWORTH.

In another column we print an article from our esteemed friend, J. H. Thomas, of Narrows, Ky., a former editor of this paper, in which he takes issue with us concerning a declaration made some time ago with reference to Congressman Nicholas Longworth's desertion of speaker Cannon. We cannot agree with Mr. Thomas that Mr. Longworth's declaration made at the time it was, could have been wholly in the interest of the Republican party. We cannot help but believe that it was brought forth at the suggestion of his father-in-law, in order to place himself, as he no doubt believed on the popular side. Mr. Cannon is the same Cannon he has been for years and has done no more than Speaker Reed Speaker Henderson or any other Republican who has occupied that position since the war. In this connection we desire to say that long since in these columns we declared ourselves against Mr. Cannon, but for an entirely different reason to the ones which are being urged by some of the so called Republican leaders. Our opposition to Mr. Cannon is due to the fact that he is unfriendly to organized labor and the editor of this paper had an opportunity a few years ago to learn this personally when he appeared before him in company with Messrs. Gompers and many of the leaders of the Federation of Labor, and sought to induce him to favor an amendment to the Sherman Anti Trust Law exempting organized labor under it. This does not change the fact that Mr. Cannon was entitled to loyalty from his friends, and especially from those upon whom he had bestowed the greatest benefactions. The attempt upon the part of the present Republican leaders of the United States to discard Mr. Cannon and to make a scape goat of him, because of the rules of the House, which have been in operation for years, is to our mind one of the most brutal, cold-blooded acts ever resorted to by man for political expediency. Under the same rule suggested by Mr. Thomas the owner of the old faithful family horse, when he has outgrown his usefulness should take him out and shoot him. The declaration of Mr. Longworth comes long after the House rules had been amended in order to take from Speaker Cannon every power which had been conferred upon him and his predecessors and which Mr. Longworth voted against, as did a great majority of the Republicans of the House but by a small minority join-fidence, which Mr. Thomas mentions was secured, not by a majority of the Republican members of the House but by a small majority joining with the Democratic members. In the same manner a vote of lack of confidence could have been administered to any Republican president and any Republican speaker who ever occupied those positions. So, if the rule prevails that a Republican should withdraw from his position or his candidacy in the future, for a position, because the opposite party with a few bolters from his own should demand it, no public man would be secure for a day in a position. This would mean the utter annihilation of all parties, and at the last analysis this is what the so called insurgent departure, headed by Mr. Roosevelt means, and we fear our friend Thomas is dangerously near joining in the same crowd, headed, nobody knows where, and must although he criticizes La Follette and Cummings take orders from them in the near future, should he set himself adrift from the moorings and principles of the old Republican party, which will prevail in the end.

Mr. Longworth may have been sacrificing a benefactor in the interest of his party and country, but the indications all point to a far different motive upon the part of the son-in-law, Congressman.

The farmer will not be duped into voting the Democratic ticket upon the idea that the tariff is to be smashed by that party, when he can buy a reaper and hinder for less money in the United States than it can be bought in Great Britain and can pay for that same binder in three years with the difference which he receives for a three year old mule now, and the amount which he could receive for the same mule under the last Democratic tariff.

Everything which is produced upon the farm can be sold at from three to five times the price which could be gotten under the last Democratic tariff law. While the articles which the farmer has to purchase have not increased in a sufficient amount to make up the difference in a year or time between the difference in the price of three hogs now and then. What farmer desires to return to the days of the Wilson Gorman tariff law?

It is amusing to note the attempted explanation of the Owensboro papers of the census reports which give Henderson a much larger population than Owensboro. The best one however comes from the Inquirer, which explains that the loss in Owensboro is occasioned by vacant houses. We presume any number which may be lacking from this cause, might be said to be due to no houses at all.

We see no particular difference in free trade under a Democratic administration, which may be brought about with one fell swoop, than the destruction of a protective tariff by taking the schedules out behind the barn one at a time and smashing them, at the hands of the Republican party. It can only prolong the agony and keep the victims in suspense.

Our friend J. H. Thomas should be careful in his elimination of old statesmen from the plane of action. Old heads are sometimes wiser than young ones and not near so apt to go off half cocked. Our own Senator Bradley is almost as old as Aldrich and yet who would say that he is too old to do effective and safe work at the helm of state.

Press dispatches say that the south has received more money for cotton this year than ever before in its history, and yet the southern states are expected to remain solidly Democratic, under all this howl for a still further reduction in the tariff, which if it goes will most surely include cotton in the smashing.

It is said that Richmond P. Hobson, while at Mountain Lake Park, refrained from attempting to kiss any of the Maryland belles, thus proving himself once more a hero.

If the moving picture man got a good representation of Mr. Roosevelt riding the bucking bronco at Cheyenne, will he be permitted to exhibit them?

Who is running this country any way asks the Birmingham News? The country is not running, it is standing still and looking for a place to jump.

Mayor Gaynor's vitality is remarkable. He survived an assassin's bullet and an indorsement by Tammany hall all within a year.

We hope Nicholas Longworth is not the biggest ammunition which can be found to shoot against Cannon.

The revolution of time changes all things. Whereas the Indians used to scalp us, we now skin them.

Kaiser William of Germany is doing a bit of rough riding. He may also be riding to a fall.

Japan made no noise about the annexation of Korea, and Korea did not dare make any.

The Democratic insurgents in Tennessee have endorsed a Republican candidate for Governor.

What Are We Coming To?

Men and brethren, think of a Republican convention in good old Iowa repudiating the Tariff law of its own party and declaring that it is a betrayal of party pledges. Then glance at the following brief record of what the new Tariff has actually accomplished and wonder:

It has converted a deficit of $58,000,000 into a surplus of $11,000,000.

It has opened the doors to foreign merchandise wider than under any Tariff law ever written.

It has secured trade concessions from foreign countries under the operation of the minimum and maximum clause, such as this nation has never enjoyed before.

It has enlarged the free list to the danger point yet its enemies say it has stifled competition.

Is a Tariff law which has made this record in the first year of its operation a criminal enactment, a repudiation of party pledges a betrayal of the people? Ye gods and little fishes! What are we coming to in Republican Iowa?—Manchester (la.) Press.

ROLLING THE TARIFF GUILLOTINE.

Piecemeal Revision Would be a
Process of Snipping Off Heads
One After Another.

New England, wanting her Industries Protected, will to get what she wants exchange her Congress votes with the Middle West, letting the Middle West, as a quid pro quo, have the Industries there protected. On the other hand, if the Middle West, not being directly concerned, is willing to let the Industries of New England be sacrificed, the New England Representatives in Congress will come back with, "All right; you slaughter us and we'll slaughter you."

This process of give and take which has been contemptuously dubbed by the Free Traders the Tariff game of "you tickle me and I'll tickle you"—is the undoubted basis of every general Tariff measure that comes out of Congress. But it is not clear to us where there will be much difference under the plan of "scientific revision." It is true that, with only the proposal to change a schedule affecting New England before Congress, for example, the Middle West, the Northwest, the Far West and other parts of the country, none of them caring a rap what happened to New England so long as they themselves were not threatened, might agree to sacrifice New England. But every single one of them would know that, by similar concert of action, some other section could be sacrificed later. Immediately therefore, the natural thing would be the same old agreement, "See here, if I am to join you to slaughter New England you must make a bargain with me not to join New England or any other section or sections to give me the same treatment later, I, of course, covenanting to stand with you for the protection of your interest through thick and thin."

No more under the new way than under the old could the Congress representatives of the various sections be expected to sit idly by while the Tariff guillotine was rolled slowly but surely from place to place, snipping off the heads of one after the other until all had been decapitated. At the first execution all the representatives, not knowing what head would next be proscribed, would rush into the old alliance for offense and defense, and, capturing the aforesaid instrument of terror, smash it to bits and send the fragments to the junk heap.

The experienced Representatives and Senators who have been playing so long the game of "you tickle me and I'll tickle you" as the only compromise by which anybody can get any part of what he wants and by which everybody must protect the Industries of his section from being made a sacrifice—those Senators and Representatives will be as quick to meet the strategy of "scientific revision" as they have been either to save or serve the interests entrusted to them under the old system of general revision.

Does He Want Another Panic?

Mr. Roosevelt apparently wants another panic; but does Mr. Taft want one? This is a question that the president will soon have to answer.

Mr. Roosevelt's Western speeches have been more dangerous to credit and confidence than to the constitution. Even his attacks upon the supreme court cannot weaken the legal powers of that great tribunal.

But credit and confidence have already begun to suffer. The Roosevelt speeches have sent a shiver of apprehension through the world of commerce and industry, not merely because the former president is preaching Socialism, Populism and demagoguery, but because of the general opinion that he is again a candidate for president and that Mr. Taft is contented with the role of proxy.

If Mr. Taft had made it plain that he regarded himself as president of the United States in his own right, that he was no mere stopgap for anybody, there would be little cause for anxiety, no matter what Mr. Roosevelt might say or do. But Mr. Taft has encouraged the belief that he looked upon himself as a proxy and that he considered Mr. Roosevelt his political superior.

The meekness and humility that the president has shown since the rough rider's return have deepened this impression. The fear that he has displayed of wounding the Roosevelt vanity or crossing the Roosevelt will is probably construed as evidence of abjection. Nowhere is there a strong popular belief that the president would fight to save his prestige or that he would resent any political insult that Mr. Roosevelt might offer to him. Indeed, the common opinion is that if Mr. Roosevelt decides to take the Republican national convention away from Mr. Taft in 1912 the president either will not resist or that he will wait until the battle is lost.

In consequence, all these wild Populist and Socialistic schemes and policies that Mr. Roosevelt has presented on his Western tour are regarded as probable issues in the next presidential campaign. Commerce and industry are confronting another reign of terror, such as brought on the panic of 1907, which threw 2,000,000 men out of work and cost the country hundreds of millions of dollars. They believe themselves threatened with another period of government by demagoguery and denunciation, all because Mr. Taft has been a proxy.

Mr. Taft is doing nothing to quiet the alarm. Does he want a panic? Is that another of My Policies to which his administration is pledged?—New York World.

"The Store That Satisfies"

HARTFORD, KY.

Reed's Tariff Nuggets.

Extracts from the speech delivered by Thomas B. Reed in the House of Representatives, February 1, 1894, the House then having under consideration the Wilson-Gorman Free-Trade Tariff bill.

"The history of Protection has been most remarkable. Fifty years ago the question seemed to be closed. Great Britain had adopted Free-Trade, the United States had started in the same direction, and the whole world seemed about to follow. To day the entire situation seems to be reversed. The whole civilized world, except Great Britain, has become Protectionist, and the very year last passed has witnessed the desertion of English principles by the last English colony which held out. This has been done in defiance of the opinions of every political economist in England who wrote prior to 1850, and of most of those who have written since.

Ten years ago it was equally true at one and the same time that every boy who graduated from college graduated a Free-Trader, and that every one of them who afterwards became a producer or distributor of our goods became also a Protectionist.

After thirty years of Protection, undisturbed by any serious menace of Free-Trade, up to the very year now last past, this country was the greatest and most flourishing nation on the face of this earth. Loud applause on the Republican side. More-over with the shadow of this unjustifiable bill resting cold upon it, with millia closed, with hundreds of thousands of men unemployed industry at a standstill, and prospects before it more gloomy than ever marked its history—except once this country is still the greatest and the richest that the sun shines on, or ever did shine on.—Renewed applause.

Says Mr. Francis Walker in substance, for I quote only from memory, and from a newspaper at that: "If the workman of America would be content with the meager life beyond seas he could save two-thirds of his entire wages."

Shorter hours of labor were scorned not only by Cobden and Bright, but by every political economist in England even down to 1883, when Boncuoy Price denounced shorter hours of labor as a "repudiation of the great doctrine of Free-Trade." The sole idea of the political economist of that class has always been as low wages as possible, as long hours as could be, and a product of as cheap a price as possible.

Our workmen penned up in our little country while Englishmen revelled in the markets of their world ought to be impoverished beyond all the experience of history. Instead of that the Aldrich report, which deserves the high eulogium of the gentleman from New York (Mr. Cockran) "with the approval of the distinguished Secretary of the Treasury," even if it does "emanate from a Democratic Bureau of Statistics," shows that since 1860 money wages have risen 68 per cent. Or if you say, and you would be right in so saying, that wages should be measured by what they will buy, the result is still more striking.

With wages rising prices of manufactured goods falling, with lessening hours of labor, what more do you want except more of the same sort?—Applause on the Republican side.

I confess to you that this question of wages is to me the vital question. To insure our growth in civilization and wealth we must not only have wages as high as they are now, but constantly and steadily increasing. Loud applause on the Republican side. No applause for this sentiment, I notice, on the Democratic side.

This question of wages is all-important as bearing upon the question of consumption. Who are the consumers? In the old days when the products of manufactures were luxuries the lord and his retainers, the lady and her maids were the consumers, a class apart by themselves, but to-day the consumers are the producers. Long ago the laborer consumed only what would keep him alive. To-day he and his wife and their children are so immeasurably the most valuable customers that if the shop had to give up the wealthy or those whom it is the custom to call poor, there would not be a moment's hesitation or a moment's doubt.

Ladies and Gentlemen Take Notice.

I have purchased of Mr. Jeff Waterson his pressing establishment now located in the Y. M. C. A. building on Center street, and am prepared to do first class work in every particular. Clean and press any article of wear for ladies and gentlemen and earnestly solicit your patronage. All work guaranteed. Prices reasonable.

Mr. Roscoe Sutton, who had been the guest of his aunt, Mrs. T. D. Duke, and family, Sunnydale, left for his home in Pittsburg, Penn., Tuesday. His sister, Miss Bessie Sutton, who is also the guest of her aunt, will stay a few weeks longer before returning.

Mr. R. S. Dunn, who has been a resident of our town for more than a year has moved with his family to Threlkel Butler County, where they will make their future home. Mr. Dunn and his family were very popular with our people and their departure is very much regretted.

Miss Daisy Wedding, of Hartford, who has been visiting relatives at Indianapolis, Ind., left the latter place last Monday for Los Angeles, Cal., on an extended visit to her grandmother, Mrs. A. M. Olney. She will remain in Los Angeles for two weeks, visiting the many points of interest, and will go with her grandmother to Lindsay, Cal., where Mrs. Olney has a beautiful home in the heart of the orange belt.

We have all heard of the "ox in the ditch," but on Tuesday of this week, May & Company, contractors in charge of the installation of the sewerage system in Hartford, changed the ox to a mule, and for more than an hour a large force of men worked to extricate a fine one belonging to Mr. S. T. Barnett and which was being used to plow in the shallow part of the ditch, but in some way fell into a place which was more than four feet deep and it was with great difficulty that he was rescued. He was considerable bruised and stiffened, but it is thought he will come out all right.

NOTICE TO THE TOBACCO GROWERS OF OHIO COUNTY

Who are expecting to sell through the American Society of Equity. The time has arrived when your committee is expected to prepare for the sale of the present growing crop. The buyers are making inquiry as to amount and condition of the crop. Other sections are getting active in their preparations and plans for selling. Some of our people are backward and inactive in reporting acreage, and locals are not sending in their pledges. We learn many have pledged but their secretaries have not reported, and because of this negligence the hands of your committee are tied. The buyers will not buy without some idea as to the amount they are getting. Now if you want us to sell your tobacco, please take this matter up in your locals and let us have a report from you at once.

We request each local to investigate and report at our next county union the number of acres badly damaged or lost because of the excessive rains.

FINANCE COMMITTEE.

Pleasant Party.

Mrs. J. S. Glenn entertained the young men preparing to leave for college with a progressive forty-two party last Friday night. The scheme of entertainment was as novel as appropriate, and highly enjoyed by all. Each table represented some profession and on each stood the picture of a Hartford, and man engaged in that profession. The winner of each game, before moving to the next table, was required to write something pertaining to the profession their table represented, and toward the close of the evening all these were read aloud, to the enjoyment of all. Those present were: Misses Annie Patton, Annie Allen Elgin, Mildred Elgin, Rebecca Shultz, of Livermore, Lella Glenn, Mary Elizabeth Felix, Nancy Ford, Winona Stevens, Messrs. Ross Bennett, McDowell Fogle, McHenry Holbrook, Harold Holbrook, Allison Barnett, Douglas Felix.

Commends Finance Committee.

Editor Republican: I want to say a word commending the Finance Committee of A. S. of E. for their action, allowing anyone to pay their dues for the year when they deliver their tobacco and I think a better way would be for everyone instead of paying lodge dues, as such, pay a certain percent on all staple produce as controlled by the A. S. of E. when sold on the market thus those that have nothing to put on the market would justly owe no dues and those that put on the market would justly owe the dues. A READER.

SCHOOL NOTES.

The new Board of Education will be organized Monday, Sept. 12, at the Superintendent's office.

I wish to notify the public again that my office will be closed except on Saturdays, after Sept. 13. Any one having business with me will save trouble by calling on Saturdays. The time has come for me to visit the schools and as this will take two months, I ask the public to remember that I will be out of the office. Schools are starting work in fine shape this fall. Every parent should see to it that his child is in school.

I wish to state to the public again that all Common School graduates can have free tuition in either of the County High Schools. Most excellent teachers are in charge of these schools. Parents should urge their children to complete the common school course and get the advantage of this free tuition and training.

Quite a number of excellent teachers have decided not to teach this year and are preparing to enter the Normal at Bowling Green. Mr. Cherry asks me to give appointments to all who want to attend the Normal as there are an unlimited number of vacancies.

HENRY LEACH, Supt. C. S.

Democrats Explain the Cost of Living.

Everyone knew that the Democratic members of the Senate Committee on Wages and Prices of Commodities would attribute the increase in the cost of living to the Tariff, and now that they have done so in the minority report upon the subject which has just been made public no one is surprised. As a matter of fact, the Tariff has demonstrably less to do with the increase in the cost of living than any other of the dozen different possible causes which have been discussed in this connection. Indeed it has not been, and it cannot be convincingly shown that the Tariff has anything whatever to do with it. This country has been living under a Protective Tariff for a good many years, with the single disastrous interval of the Wilson bill and there is no such difference between the existing schedules and the schedules which were in force ten years ago as to account for the rise in the cost of commodities which has occurred since then. Most of the advance which is the subject of so much complaint has taken place within the past five years, during which time the Tariff conditions have been substantially unchanged.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

The Cow.

The dairy cow, if able to express her self in a way which the human family would comprehend, might well lay claim to being man's best friend. She might establish such a claim by calling attention to the fact that from her product and from her carcass man manufactures more of the necessities of life than from any other similar source. She furnishes these necessities to him from infancy until such a time as temporal things are no longer associated with his existence, and she does it ungrudgingly and constantly.

In addition to contributing to man's necessity and his pleasure, the prosperity of an agricultural community is more closely identified with her than with any other of the domestic animals. The horse is quite essential in tilling the soil, but where necessity requires it the sturdy son of the cow can take his place, as he has done in every agricultural section on earth. The horse can only furnish labor and can only return a profit to his owner when conditions are right for returning satisfactory grain crops. It is a well known fact that the dairy cow is the salvation of the farmer in times of poor crops as she is able to convert the rough crops which are never a total failure, into dairy products which always have a cash value.

In addition to this she furnishes skin milk and butter milk for the calves, pigs and poultry and fertility for the soil, without which a farm becomes less valuable each year and the whole country less prosperous.

The elimination of the dairy cow would necessitate an almost revolutionary readjustment of man's tastes and requirements. It would mean untold suffering and hardship. Of course she will not be dispensed with but her value can perhaps best be appreciated by contemplating such a loss.

She will continue to be man's best friend as long as the human family exists and will keep on supplying him with his greatest needs as she has done through all the ages.

Teachers Wanted.

The demand for teachers who have been trained in the Western Normal is greater than the supply. The Fall Session opens September 6th. Write President H. H. Cherry, Bowling Green, Ky., for information relative to free tuition.

Prodigality.

Andrew Carnegie at one of his famous dinners in New York talked about the prodigal and ostentatious expenditures of a certain type of New York millionaire.

He takes a Velasquez said Mr. Carnegie and cuts it into three strips so that it will go on a screen, Paul Bourget told the world about that And I heard the other day another thing about him.

A gentleman was being shown over the $3,000,000 palace of one of these millionaires. The gentleman stopped before an enormous mirror and said: "What a large and perfect glass! Pity it's scratched!"

It is rather a pity said the millionaire carelessly and turning to his majordomo, he said: "Don't let the children have any more diamonds to play with Maurice."

Secure a Certificate.

Under the law the Western Normal has the power to issue the ELEMENTARY CERTIFICATE, the INTERMEDIATE CERTIFICATE and the LIFE CERTIFICATE which entitles the holder to teach anywhere in Kentucky for two years, four years, and for life respectively without further examination. Information as to the amount of work required for each certificate will be furnished when desired. Address H. H. Cherry, President, Western Normal, Bowling Green, Ky.

Raising a False Issue.

A story well known to lawyers of the last generation is about the "umbrella case." A man was charged with stealing an umbrella, and a number of witnesses went into the box to testify to the offense. The counsel for the defendant noted that each witness carried an umbrella (the time of year was midsummer, which explains the necessity for these impediments). As a matter of fact, the prisoner had no defense to make. The barrister, thrown on his wits, exclaimed: "Gentlemen of the jury, did you not notice that each of the witnesses carried an umbrella into the box? Why is this, gentlemen? It is done in order to infect your minds with the idea of an umbrella, to prejudice the prisoner in your eyes, to raise a false issue, and I appeal to you to signify your detestation of this concerted action by bringing in a verdict of not guilty." The judge, who imagined that little attention would be paid to such a plea, took little time and less pains to sum up the case. The jury nevertheless brought in a verdict in accordance with the resourceful barrister's wishes.—London News.

Hot Air.

The sirocco blows hot from the highlands of north Africa and falls on the Mediterranean as far as Malta. The salano jumps like a windy fireball from the heat of the Sahara desert and lands flatfooted in Spain. The barman blows hot Sahara dust far into the Atlantic and gives nosebleed and makes skin and lips parch and crack, while furniture and ship timbers groan and crack and scream in an agony of droughty despair. The khashm blows Sahara's ancient dust into Egyptian eyes every fifty days. The pamperos periodically blow down into Buenos Aires out of the unexplored desert highlands of Brazil, and the blowing causes suicides and murders to be more common and wounds to break out afresh, with a heavy death rate. Pamperos pass away in a second, leaving the air fine.—Exchange.

The School of Music.

Persons desiring a full course in Vocal and Instrumental or Public School music, will enjoy unexcelled opportunities in the Western Normal. Write for special information Address H. H. Cherry, Bowling Green, Ky.

Maine's Double Eggs.

A Norway (Me.) has a hen that lays many double yolked eggs, but within a few days the hen went her previous record one better by dropping an egg within an egg. The outer shell and egg were perfect and inside was a smaller egg, also perfect.

When Wife is Away.

The "summer divorce" brings separation in a host of families. Only about 12,000 to 14,000 homes are in this city each summer wholly closed and the family away. There are thrice this number from 40,000 to 50,000 where for all or part of the summer the man is at home and at work alone—more, or less—and the wife and children are away.

If you are the man and at home are you writing to wife and family regularly? Are you taking as much pains about your family letters as your business correspondence? You pride yourself on your business letters. You make them prompt, plain, clear full and effective. Do you do as much in writing to your family? Are your reports as full and speaking as you make business reports? Yet your family means more to you and in your heart of hearts you care more for it than for your business. You slave in your business for the sake of your family.

If you are the woman and away from home, are your letters full, complete, catching and interesting? Are they as carefully and promptly done as your social correspondence? Do you put as much into the letter home as you do into a club paper, for instance?

Nothing holds like a good letter. Many a man and many a woman is anchored by a good strong faithful full loving, daily letter. Nothing holds the writer in these family separations firmer than the habit of daily writing all that goes on. Either all goes in, which is safety or something is left out, which is a danger signal and warns, like an alarm bell, those who want to be right, but have had some pleasant, tempting reason for wandering in the empty house, at home or away from home, in the great summer divorce.

Make your family letters count. Write often, put all in make the letter a daily journal and pour out the inner love, which is often better and more easily written than said and too often taken for granted, until too late death ends all and leaves silence and unavailing regret.—From the Philadelphia Pa., Press.

ROUND OF PLEASURE

Ahead of Visitors to Kentucky State Fair.

GRAND FREE ATTRACTIONS

Market Successfully Sourced for Best Offerings in the Amusement World.

"Pioneer Days in Kentucky" to Be Featured as the Great Pyro-technic Spectacle.

American people must have amusement, and no set of men recognize the fact better than the officers and managers of the Kentucky State Fair. The round of pleasure at the eighth annual state fair, to take place in Louisville September 12-17, will be as nearly continuous and complete as it is possible to make it.

Secretary J. W. Newman has this season paid particular attention to what may be described as the purely amusement features for the forthcoming state fair. A contract has been closed with the United Fairs Booking Company to supply "The Pass" with the most novel and up-to-date attractions that could possibly be assembled. The usual precautions have been taken to insure the correct moral tone and cleanliness of the individual shows. This amusement feature will be on such a large scale this year that it was found necessary to enlarge the area heretofore utilized as "The Pass," and that justly famous avenue of mirth will be arranged in the shape of an immense crescent with every inch of space along the avenue occupied by some new amusement concession.

The list of "free attractions" is a splendid one. These offerings of the fair management proved so popular last year that care was taken this summer to close contracts with the best amusement market has to present. A star feature will be the Wakaham Japanese Troupe, consisting of a dozen or more tumblers and jugglers from the "Land of the Rising Sun." The Japs will compete with Madame Louise's Monkey Show, Pink's Trained Mules, Morris and Morris, expert tumblers, and Slackey and Briede, high wire artists. Davenport's Fancy Horses are expected to carry off the highest honors, however, among the free attractions. This entertainment is nothing short of a three-ring circus, which will be presented each afternoon and evening.

The acme of spectacular display will be enjoyed each evening in the fireworks exhibition. A contract has been closed with the world-famous Pain, and that noteworthy is at work on a program designed especially for the Kentucky State Fair. The feature of the fireworks display each night will be an original pyrotechnic production entitled, "Pioneer Days in Kentucky." It is said that the services of over 150 men and women will be required to properly present the spectacle.

Linked with the features already described there will be the races by day and the horse show in the pavilion by night. Negotiations are also under way with owners of other amusement enterprises, and it is probable that the list of special attractions will be largely increased before the opening of the gates of the 1910 fair.

BUSY DAYS AND NIGHTS.

Time of Special Interest to Every Class Allotted by State Fair Promoters.

Busy hours and minutes are ahead of visitors to the Kentucky State Fair of 1910, which will begin in Louisville on the morning of September 12. The interest of scores of organizations has been enlisted, and every day and every night has been dedicated to some particular group with everybody invited all the time.

Fred K. Keiser, of Louisville, is general chairman on special days, and A. B. Lipcomb, Secretary of the Louisville Commercial Club, general chairman on special nights. As heretofore, Monday, the first day, has been set aside for the school children of Kentucky. The youngsters are expected to turn out by the thousands and a guarantee of one day full of happiness will go along with each school child's ticket sold. Prof. E. H. Mark, superintendent of the Louisville Public Schools is chairman of School Children's Day.

Tuesday, September 13, will be Farmers' Day, with W. T. Chilton, of Campbellsville, as chairman. Formal sessions will be held on that day by many of the organizations made up of farmers.

Wednesday, September 14, will be Louisville Day, with W. O. Head, Mayor of the city, as chairman. It is expected this will be one of the banner days of the fair from an attendance standpoint.

Kentucky Day will be observed on Thursday, September 15. This also will be Press Day and Good Roads Day, with A. D. Miller, of Richmond, president of the Kentucky Press Association, acting as chairman and H. A. Summers, of Elizabethtown, vice-chairman.

Friday, September 16, has been especially dedicated to Kentucky's neighbors, and will be known as Southern Indiana and Traveling Men's Day. Adam Helmburger, of New Albany, is chairman, and D. O. Talcott, of Louisville, vice-chairman.

Saturday, September 17, has been put down as Everybody's Day with everybody chairman.

A testimonial to the great work being accomplished by Kentucky club women is evidenced in the dedication of the first night of the fair as Women's Organization Night. Mrs. Chas. P. Weaver, of Louisville, is chairman.

A MODERN SCALPER.

The Little Comedy That Was Played Between the Acts.

A little comedy between acts enlivened things at a Broadway theater one night last week. A middle aged man accompanied by his wife sat directly behind a pretty young girl and her escort. At the end of the first act the middle aged man went out for "fresh air." He came back bringing the smell of the fresh air and gayer spirits with him. His wife gave him a startled glance, and like a flash her hand went up to his vest. There dangled from the top button was a bunch of brown, curly puffs. There was a dynmitchal second as the wife held the puffs in her white gloved hand and looked at her. Now she was not a jealous wife—just a common sense little woman, ready to meet an emergency. She looked at the heads about her. The pretty girl's back hair looked as if a piece had fallen out. The wife leaned over to the side away from the girl's escort and whispered. The girl slipped a hand down and back, and the wife stealthily laid the bunch of puffs which her husband had carried away on his vest button in the owner's hand. The latter kept them concealed, gently and artfully reached up, pinned them into place, and escort, watching the rising curtain, was none the wiser. —New York Times.

HIS STUPID MISTAKE.

Much to His Surprise It Was Promptly Rectified.

A well known Londoner was planning an entertainment on an elaborate scale to be given to various friends in the neighborhood of his country seat. Unfortunately his nearest neighbor, a close relative, is highly uncongenial to himself and his intimates, and he racked his brains to devise a scheme by which he might avoid the necessity of inviting the undesirable cousin to be among his guests.

"I have it!" he announced to his wife at breakfast on the morning of the event. "I'll send him some tickets for the play tonight in town. Of course he'll be delighted, as he seldom has an opportunity of going to the theater."

The tickets were accordingly sent, and the host with an easy conscience proceeded to enjoy the company of his friends. But his satisfaction was of short duration. At the height of the festivities, much to his surprise, in walked the objectionable neighbor. "Such a stupid mistake you made!" he announced as he approached his cousin. "As soon as I heard about your party I knew that you must have sent me the tickets for the wrong night, so I got them changed for tomorrow evening and came right over here as soon as I could."—London Tatler.

What Napoleon Couldn't Do.

An incident connected with Napoleon when he was in exile in Elba is commemorated on the island to this day by an inscription affixed to the wall of a peasant's house. A man named Giacconi was plowing when the famous exile came along one day and expressed an interest in his work. Napoleon even took the plow handles and attempted to guide it himself, but the oxen refused to obey him, overturned the plow and spoiled the furrow. The inscription runs thus:

"Napoleon the Great, passing by this place in MDCCCIV, took in the neighboring field a plow from the hands of a peasant and himself tried to plow, but the oxen, rebellious to those hands which yet had guided Europe, headlong fled from the furrow." —St. Louis Republic.

The Guarantee.

Gobbs Golde, the American millionaire, accompanied by his daughter, Miss Lotta, picked out a Rembrandt at a foreign dealer's and then, before planking down the cash, said very sternly:

"Now, see here, sir, do you guarantee this Rembrandt?"

"Yes, Mr. Golde," the dealer replied. "A seven years' guarantee goes with the canvas."

"Oh, very well," said Gobbs, mollified, and he took out his check book and fountain pen.—Washington Star.

A Bigger Bid.

A Lincolnshire parish once possessed a clergyman who was not much appreciated. One day he remarked to his church warden: "You people don't seem to appreciate me. Do you know that on leaving my last sphere of work the people showed their appreciation so much that they gave me a real silver slaver?"

"That is nothing," was the churchwarden's reply. "If that would only go away from this parish we'd give thee a gold un!"—London Chronicle.

Her Jewels.

Mrs. Subbubs (to neighbor)—Willie and Bobbie aren't home from school yet, and here it is 5 o'clock. Did you see anything of my precious jewels as you came along, Mr. Nixdore? Nixdore—Your precious jewels are in soak, madam. I just saw them swimming in the river.—Boston Transcript.

Ticklish.

"How many ribs have you?" asked the teacher. "I don't know, ma'am," giggled Sallie. "I'm so awfully ticklish, I could never count 'em."—Lippincott's.

No Temptation.

"James, can I trust you with the key to the wine cellar?" The New Butler (stiffly)—Certainly, sir! I have seen all the labels.—Life.

Set not thyself to attain much rest, but much patience.—Thomas a Kempis.

RAINING CATS AND DOGS.

Various Explanations of the Origin of This Expression.

Many explanations have been given of the origin of the expression "raining cats and dogs." One is that it is a perversion of the French "catadoupes," a waterfall—"It is raining a catadoupes," or cataracts. Another explanation is that the male blossoms of the willow tree, which are used on Palm Sunday to represent the branches of palm, were called "cats and dogs" in some parts of England, where they increase rapidly after a few warm April showers, and the belief prevailed that the rain brought them.

Others trace the saying to northern mythology, in which the cat is said to have great influence on the weather, and sailors still have a saying, "The cat has a gale of wind in her tail," when she is unusually frisky. Witches that rode upon the storms were said to assume the form of cats, and the stormy northwest wind is called "the cat's nose" in the Harz mountains even at the present day. Then the dog is a symbol of wind, which in old German pictures is figured as the head of a dog or wolf from which blasts issue. The cat therefore symbolizes a down-pour of rain; the dog, strong gusts of wind, which accompany it, and so a rain "of cats and dogs" is a heavy rain with wind.

A NIGERIAN LEGEND.

It Tells of the Origin of Man's Subjection to Women.

There is a quaint old Nigerian legend that relates the origin of man's subjection to women.

At the beginning of things, the legend runs, the world was peopled by women only. One day the earth god, Awbassi Nai, happened by accident to kill a woman. On hearing this the rest gathered together and prayed that, if he meant to slay them, he would bring destruction on all together rather than kill them one by one.

Awbassi was sorry for the grief he had caused and offered as compensation to give them anything they should choose out of all his possessions. They begged him to mention what he had to give and said that they would all cry "Yes" when he named the thing they wished to have.

Awbassi mentioned one by one all his fruits, fowls and beasts, but at each they shouted "No." At length the list was nearly ended—only one thing remained to offer.

"Will you, then, take man?" asked Awbassi at last. "Yes!" they roared in a great shout, and, catching hold of one another, danced for joy at the thought of the gift Awbassi was sending.

Thus men became the servants of women and have to work for them to this day.

The Sense of Humor.

A man has a sense of humor or he has not. If he has not he cannot acquire it; if he has it by birthright he cannot lose it with the passing of years. The only change as life goes on in one who has this inborn sense is that different things appeal to it from those that excited amusement in youth, but in this it is like other mental faculties. As judgment mellow and ripens, so the power of discovering those things that excite smiles becomes more discriminating. Humor is not a physical attribute to fade as the body loses its youthful elasticity, but purely mental. Men who possess it in goodly measure have been known to smile on their deathbeds over the very comedy of life.—Indianapolis Star.

The Flax Plant.

Flax is obtained from the flax plant, a small, delicate annual with a tiny blue flower. The plant is pulled by hand in the summer, the seeds, known in commerce as linseed, being removed and the straw subjected to various processes to separate the fibrous part which constitutes the linen. First it is steeped in water and then passed through a drying and heating process on revolving wheels until all foreign matter is removed. It is then ready for manufacture.

Not a Question of Etiquette.

Mrs. Hendricks (the lady)—Can I help you to some more soup, Mr. Dumley?

Mr. Dumley—No, thanks. Mrs. Hendricks (engagingly)—Don't refuse, Mr. Dumley, because it isn't considered good form to be helped twice to soup. We're not particular people here.

Mr. Dumley—Oh, etiquette has nothing to do with it, madam; it's the soup.

She Learns, Too.

There had been a family row. "Well," remarked the alleged head of the house, "a man learns a few things when he gets married. Yes, sir, a man lives and learns." "That may be," retorted the feminine half of the sketch, "but the school of experience doesn't bar co-eds."—Washington Herald.

Overcharged.

Bell—Did I understand you to say that the dentist overcharged you? Nell—Yes; he gave me enough gas to inflate a balloon.—Kansas City Journal.

Not to Blame.

The Elderly Lady—They say his wife has money. The Younger—Well, that isn't his fault. They've only been married a short time.

Obedience is not truly performed by the body of him whose heart is dissatisfied.—Saadi.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription

Is the best of all medicines for the cure of diseases, disorders and weaknesses peculiar to women. It is the only preparation of its kind devised by a regularly graduated physician—an experienced and skilled specialist in the diseases of women.

It is a safe medicine in any condition of the system. THE ONE REMEDY which contains no alcohol and no injurious habit-forming drugs and which creates no craving for such stimulants.

THE ONE REMEDY so good that its makers are not afraid to print its every ingredient on each outside bottle-wrapper and attest to the truthfulness of the same under oath.

It is sold by medicine dealers everywhere, and any dealer who hasn't it can get it. Don't take a substitute of unknown composition for this medicine of known composition. No counterfeit is as good as the genuine and the druggist who says something else is "just as good as Dr. Pierce's" is either mistaken or is trying to deceive you for his own selfish benefit. Such a man is not to be trusted. He is trifling with your most priceless possession—your health—may be your life itself. See that you get what you ask for.

Seed Wheat--Harvest King Re-cleaned and True to Name.

Harvest King is smooth head wheat red in color and is one of the most popular varieties grown in Kentucky. Heads medium long and well filled, with short plump grain. A fine milling wheat, often scoring ninety-seven or more. It is a sure cropper and produces a large yield, the yield having reached as high as fifty bushels per acre on the Kentucky Experimental Farm at Lexington in year 1900. The quality is the best I have ever grown. While the supply lasts I am offering my crop at $1.10 per bushel. Send in your order early, as orders are coming in fast and the time for sowing is drawing near. Thanking you in advance for your patronage, I am yours truly, E. G. AUSTIN, Prentiss, Ky.

Sale in Bankruptcy.

In the district court of the United States, for the western district of Kentucky, Owensboro Division.

In the matter of Zachariah Wayne Griffin, Bankrupt.

Pursuant to an order entered in the above styled proceeding, on the 22nd day of August, A. D., 1910, directing a sale of the property hereinafter described, I, as Trustee of said estate, will on the 19th, day of September, A. D., 1910, at one o'clock p. m., at the drug store known as the Griffin Drug Store, in Hartford, Kentucky, offer for sale at public auction, to the highest and best bidder, the following described property:

Said property consists of real and personal property as follows:

1. A brick business house and lot on Center street in Hartford, Ky., more particularly described as follows: Being a part of lot No. 50, beginning at Fred Woerner's N. E. corner on Fox Alley (Now Center street); thence N. E. with Center street 20 feet to W. C. Chapman's corner (now Barnett & Smith's corner); thence N. W. 75 feet; thence S. W. 25 feet; thence S. E. 75 feet to the beginning, and being the same property conveyed to Sallie T. Griffin by Z. W. Griffin, Sr., on January 30th, 1879, by deed recorded in the office of the Clerk of the Ohio County Court in Deed Book No. 1, page 108, and inherited by the bankrupt from the said Sallie T. Griffin.

Also another parcel of ground adjoining the foregoing, and beginning at the N. W. corner of the foregoing lot, and in the line of the Barnett & Smith lot; thence N. W. 31 feet to corner of Barnett & Smith's lot; thence N. E. with their 25 feet to Apple Alley; thence N. W. with Apple Alley 11 feet to the corner of the lot formerly owned by the Union Church; thence S. W. with the line of said church lot and lot sold by I. Morton to W. H. Miller 85 feet to line of lot No. 49; thence with a line of said lot S. E. 42 feet to a lot now owned by Barnett; thence N. E. with the line of said lot, L. F. Woerner and the foregoing lot 60 feet to the beginning, and being same property conveyed to Sallie T. Griffin as above stated, and inherited by the said bankrupt from the said Sallie T. Griffin, his moth. Both together appraised at $3,300.00.

2. One stock of drugs, druggist's sundries, toilet article, paints and other merchandise and the old prescriptions and including the fixtures and everything in the drug store except the soda fountain and the appurtenances belonging thereto, such as tables, chairs, refrigerator, charging apparatus, &c; appraised at $2,662.02.

3. Soda fountain and its appurtenances, including tables, chairs, refrigerator, charging apparatus glasses, &c; appraised at $647.25.

4. One lot of accounts, appraised at $200.00; one lot of notes, appraised at $108.00; one share in Hartford Tobacco Warehouse Company stock, appraised at $35.00; these to be sold in separate items, and for cash.

The Trustee will first offer property described in 1, 2 and 3 separately; he will then offer 2 and 3 together; he will then offer 1, 2 and 3 together, and accept the method bringing the most money.

All of said property except that described in 4 will be sold one-third cash, one-third due in six months, an one-third due in twelve months, the purchasers to be required to execute bonds with good security for the deferred payments, bearing interest from the date of sale, and payable to the Trustee, with lien retained on the property as additional security.

All of said property will be sold free of liens.
